

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A paper product having shiny "glitter" particles dispersed in a random but essentially uniform fashion over the surface of the paper and a process for making the paper product in which metallic particles are mixed with a pulp slurry in a fourdrinier paper making process in an amount from 2-4% by weight.